Description:

21 generic non species specific bush models, seven varieties with three variations of each. There should be enough variety of shape size and colour for most situations where a bush is needed. Although they are made to a real world scale moderate scaling both within populations and as single objects is possible without them appearing unnatural.

While the polygon counts have been kept as low as reasonably possible to allow these models to be used in populations for intermediate and distance work they are detailed enough and use texture mapped leafs to give good results in all but extreme close up.
